AUGUST. VI Month.

To make the cleanly Kitchen ſend up Food,
Not coſtly vain, but plentifully Good.
To bid the Cellar's Fountain never fail,
Of ſparkling Cyder, or of well-brew'd Ale;
To buy, to pay, to blame, or to approve,
Within, without, below-ſtairs, and above;
To ſhine in every Corner, like the Sun,
Still working every where, or looking on.

On the 2d of this month, Anno 1704, was fought the famous battle of Hochſtet, in which the joint armies of the French and Bavarians were totally defeated, by the duke of Marlborough and prince Eugene, 20,000 killed, and 13,000 taken priſoners, with the French general, marſhal Tallard. There was never any victory, the news of which gave greater joy in England; the nation being under the greateſt apprehenſions for their army, when it was known that the French and Bavarians were joined, and were much more numerous than the Engliſh and Dutch: For it was generally thought, that if the Engliſh were beaten, at ſo great a diſtance from home, very few would ever be able to reach their native country again; Hochſtet being on the banks of the Danube, very far in Germany.

Muſchitoes, or Muſketoes, a little venomous fly, ſo light, that perhaps 50 of them, before they've fill'd their bellies, ſcarce weigh a grain, yet each has all the parts neceſſary to life, motion, digeſtion, generation, &c. as veins, arteries, muſcles, &c. each has in his little body room for the five ſenſes of feeling, hearing, feeling, ſmelling, taſting: How inconceivably ſmall muſt their organs be! How inexpreſſibly fine the workmanſhip! And yet there are little animals diſcovered by the mieroſcope, to whom a Muſketo is an Elephant!---- In a ſcarce ſummer any citizen may provide Muſketoes ſufficient for his own family, by leaving tubs of rain-water uncover'd in his yard; for in ſuch water they lay their eggs, which when hatch'd, become firſt little fiſh, afterwards put forth legs and wings, leave the water, and fly into your windows. Probatum eſt.
